Pleasanton council on zone flap

PLEASANTON — Citing the domino effect as reason, director of planning Robert Harris is again recommending denial of a general plan amendment approved by the planning commissioners almost three weeks ago.

The land in question, owned by Holly Sugar Corporation, is a small, narrow strip directly next to the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks near Santa Rita Road.

Harris agrees that the land's small size and rectangular shape makes it "potentially good industrial or heavy commercial property," which is what prospective buyer Lee Slaughter wants it zoned so he can build a warehouse. But Harris fears changing the land designation from open space to industrial will encourage other adjacent landowners to also apply for industrial designation.

Harris's argument against the amendment to city council members tonight held no water with planning commissioners earlier this month.

The commissioners approved Slaughter's application, stating the shape of the land and area was ideal for a warehouse and emphasizing they were not bound to approve any additional applications merely because they approved the first.

"We ought to recognize that if you tell someone his property can only be used as a buffer zone, you are rendering his property useless," says planning commissioner Bob Butler explaining his earlier vote.

Harris is recommending city council deny the application "without prejudice." This, he says, would allow Slaughter and Holly Sugar to organize a cohesive development plan with adjacent landowners whose property is designated "public and institutional."

That's a tough recommendation to carry out, according to realtor Don Murphy who claims it's almost impossible to get several landowners to agree on one plan of development without years of arguing.

Murphy feels the city should buy his client's property if the city decides to keep that narrow 3.8 acre parcel as a buffer zone to ward off industrial encroachment on the area.

At 10 a.m., fog still obliterated any view of prominent ridgelands behind Pleasanton's old railroad depot.

Our cautious approach to morning fog

Dense fog that blanketed the Valley the past few mornings is forecast to continue while the ground remains damp from last week's rain and winds are stilled by a high pressure area off the California coast.

Though neither the California Highway Patrol nor the Livermore airport tower reported any fog-related problems yesterday, the airport was restricted to instrument operations until 9:46 a.m. when the fog began to break.

Drivers seemed naturally cautious, according to CHP officer Fred Martin who patrols the Valley.

"People were driving at the speed limit this morning," he said.

The CHP decided the fog was not heavy enough to warrant convoying traffic over the more dangerous stretches of highway, particularly the Altamont Pass were two drivers died in a 30-car pileup in heavy fog last January.

But even before that accident the CHP had practiced leading traffic at 30—40 mph when visibility was severely limited.

Localized low-lying fog is common in parts of California, caused by a combination of factors including light wind, ground moisture and nighttime temperatures that can vary by as much as 20 degrees within a few miles.

Recently the Northern California high pressure area has "stagnated" our air and trapped ground moisture condensed by night temperatures in the low 40's, according to Dick Bundy of the National Weather Service.

This low ground "tule fog" is a greater problem in Central California but occurs in the Valley when the conditions are right.

A higher layer of stratus clouds moving in from the coast the last four nights has settled and condensed in the windless cool and added to the fog, Bundy said.

Four dead were from Moffett Field

LIVERMORE — Members of Civil Air Patrol (CAP) Squadron 156 based at Livermore Airport pinpointed the crash site of a light plane in King's Canyon National Forest during a preliminary route search Thanksgiving weekend.

King's Canyon National Forest is located between Fresno and Las Vegas.

CAP Captain Fred Staedel of San Ramon piloted the search plane. He was accompanied by two observers. They were CAP Captains Mary Jane Hyde of Dublin and Terrence Taylor of San Lorenzo.

Staedel said the downed plane was a Cherokee 180 belonging to a Moffett Field Aero Club. It crashed Nov. 26. Four U.S. Navy personnel were aboard. They were enroute from Moffett Field at Mountain View, Calif. to Las Vegas

There were no survivors. The victims were identified as Ensign Marian E. Baker, Ensign Gary Barnes, pilot, Lt.j.g. Richard James and 2nd. Lt. Beth Overton.

After being alerted Nov. 26 at 6 p.m. about the crash, Staedel said he gathered his crew and took off from Livermore Airport an hour later.

Since the victims' last radio message was received in the Fresno area, Staedel flew to Fresno to begin the search.

Besides visual observing, the area was monitored by the search plane's Emergency Location Transmitter (ELT) equipment.

All planes are required to carry an ELT by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Staedel explained.

On impact, an ELT automatically begins transmitting a signal that can be picked up by monitoring equipment.

"As we approached Kearsarge Pass in King's Canyon National Forest, we heard a faint ELT signal for about 30 seconds," Staedel said. "I turned around to go back for another pass over the spot but was confronted by severe turbulence and elected to not go back again."

Staedel said the crash site was located in the deepest canyon at the foot of a 13,000 foot mountain. The general area is noted for turbulence; down drafts, especially.

Planners in the field

LIVERMORE — Planning commissioners will be looking at eight vacant parcels of land today on a special field trip as part of a study of the general plan.

The field trip will give them background material for a study session tonight when the parcels will be proposed for changes to bring them into conformity with the general plan. As it stands now, the pieces of property, mainly residential, do not conform in zoning with the general plan.

Also in the study session tonight, 7 :30 p.m., planning commissioners will take a look at commercial and industrial land uses to see how to implement commercial highway designation with the general plan and to correct some inconsistencies in commercial zoning.

City hall expansion

The non-profit Pleasanton Public Facilities Corporation will hold a meeting Thursday to discuss expansion of the city hall on Bernal Avenue.

The board of directors will meet at noon in the Pleasanton Hotel.

Educators at dinner

School board members and administrators of Valley districts will all be out on the dinner circuit tonight with dinner-programs scheduled for the Amador-Pleasanton School District offices and th San Ramon National Golf Course.

Trustees of the Livermore, Pleasanton and Murray districts will meet at the Pleasanton district offices for a potluck dinner beginning at 6 p.m. At the same time, Region 6 of the Association of California School Administrators (ACSA) will gather in San Ramon.

Discussion programs will follow each dinner.

Komandorski project

Job training with a bonus

PLEASANTON — The oft-quoted adage "killing two birds with one stone" aptly describes a new Housing Authority program combining job training with building improvements.

Using over $29,000 in federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act funds, the agency plans to give unskilled CETA workers on the job weatherization training by setting them to task weatherizing the 175 public housing units in Komandorski Village.

"We spend about half our budget alone on utilities — that averages about $150,000 a year," says housing director Michael Parsons.

Parsons figures weatherization could save at least five 5 percent, or about $8000, each year. And simultaneously give eight persons current jobs and a skill for the future.

The Pleasanton Housing Authority is under mandate from the state legislature to demolish the low income housing which was originally built as "temporary" housing during World War II. Although the agency has already been guaranteed federal funds to replace 50 of those 175 units, Parsons doesn't expect most of the apartments emptied and torn down for several years yet.

"We're not trying to extend the life of the buildings by weatherizing at all. Our intent is to try and save on our utilities and give work and a job skill to some of the village residents." Parson says. adding that the average utilities fees for each apartment is about $70 a month.

According to the director, the program should begin in March and be completed by next September. The CETA money is strictly for worker salaries, thus money for materials will come from the utility budget, anticipating a reduction in fees once weatherization is done.

Shift over, so inmate walks away from jail

PLEASANTON — An inmate working at Santa Rita Jail's front office walked away from the county jail after his shift was completed Sunday, authorities reported.

Thomas Edward Hughes, 26, of San Francisco walked away from the minimum security area about 1 a.m.

Hughes reportedly told a fellow inmate worker that he was going back to the barracks to get some shoe polish.

Hughes had been sentenced on a burglary conviction and was serving 156 days in the jail before his departure.

Door-to-door nuisance in Livermore

LIVERMORE — Out-of-town magazine solicitors have been hassling area residents, weekend police reports show.

Several youths operating without solicitors' permits have been trying to sell magazines to residents. In some cases where the pitch has failed, police report, the sales people have become "rough" in their use of language.

The police advise residents to request proof the person possesses a solicitors' license. This should be pinned to the sales person's shirt. If any problems arise, residents are asked to call the police at 443-0111.

Apperson

High court hears suit

The California Supreme Court will hear the Sierra Club's appeal of its suit against William Apperson's proposed guest ranch near Sunol.

Whatever the seven justices decide, their verdict will be a landmark decision in a small, but significant area of the state's zoning law, believes Sierra Club attorney William O'Donnell.

Sierra Club sued Apperson and Alameda County because it felt that the county was too liberal in interpreting the conditional use permit procedure in the agricultural zoning district regulations.

Apperson wants to build 322 "guest villas" on his 2,555 acre ranch which would feature horseback riding, tennis, restaurants and a health spa.

O'Donnell contends that its fine to have tennis courts or horseback riding as a recreational use under the terms of the county's conditional use permit procedures for agricultural zones like Apperson's.

But it's not okay to have two restaurants and 322 guest cottages, said O'Donnell. He said the ordinance specifically forbids dwellings and guest houses as accessory structures in an agricultural distirict."

By allowing as part of the conditional use permit procedure, the Alameda County Board of Supervisors "acted beyond the scope of their jurisdiction," said O'Donnell.

Other boards of supervisors have done the same in other parts of the state, so one way or another the outcome of the case will be a landmark, said O'Donnell. No date has been set yet for the oral arguments before the Supreme Court in San Francisco.

A superior court judge decided in favor of Apperson and the county and that decision was upheld 2-1 in state appeallate court earlier this year.

Armed robber hits diner

LIVERMORE — An armed robber held up the Dandy Dogs restaurant at 4086 East Ave. Saturday evening and escaped with $110, police reported.

A man walked into the diner about 6 p.m. and said, "Give me all your money or I'll use this," pointing to a revolver in his waistband. He took the money and fled on foot.

The suspect is described as a white man, 18-20 years old, about six feet tall, 165 pounds, with blue eyes and blond, wavy shoulder-length hair.

Police lifted fingerprints from the front door. The investigation is continuing.

LIVERMORE — A juvenile who had his motorcycle impounded at a service station Saturday after driving recklessly later seized the cycle and allegedly terrorized a gas station employee and the worker's 14-year-old daughter, police reported.

According to police reports, the youth was booked on suspicion of driving recklessly and resisting arrest after leading police on a chase that hit speeds of 65 mph in a 25 mph zone.

Several hours later, the youth attempted to retrieve the cycle but couldn't get the paperwork completed. Police said the youth then went to the Springtown Gulf station on Bluebell Drive and took the cycle from storage.

An employee tried to block the youth but was nearly run over, officers reported. The suspect allegedly sped by the attendant's young daughter twice, narrowly missing her on both occasions.

The youth was later arrested and booked on additional charges of burglary and assault with a deadly weapon.

PLEASANTON — Reports of a suspicious vehicle on Johnson Industrial Drive early Sunday led police to arrest a San Leandro man suspected of stealing auto parts from a service station.

Officer Marc Johnson observed a suspicious vehicle driving slowly around the area and pulled it over on Hopyard Road. He found two radial tires with their original stickers in the car's back seat.

A search of the car uncovered a total of five tires and several auto parts, allegedly taken from the Chevron station there.

Drug paraphernalia were also found in the car, police said. Booked on suspicion of grand theft, possessing stolen property and possession of drug paraphernalia was Charles Dale Lane, 28.

PLEASANTON — Two suspects who allegedly tossed two CB radios out their car window after police suspected they had been stolen were arrested when the thefts were reportedly confirmed, officers said.

Officer Bill Coble stopped a suspicious vehicle early yesterday and discovered two CB radios with different driver's licenses numbers engraved on them. A computer check indicated the radios had been stolen, but confirmation with the victims was not possible.

Police were able to contact the victims later and found that the radios had been reported stolen. Officers returned to one suspect's residence and spotted the two men driving away. The radios were found lying in the street.

Arrested on suspicion of possessing stolen property were Michael James Ryan, 19, of 867 Kilkare Road in Sunol, and Geoffrey Allan Merrow, 18, of 195 Bernal Ave.

LIVERMORE — Three juveniles who were allegedly trying to steal a car from a Leahy Way residence were arrested early Friday, police reported.

One nearby resident heard noises, and upon seeing three suspects pushing a car, called police. Officers arrived and reportedly watched the suspects push the car approximately 100 yards. When they started the car up, police moved in and blocked off their escape.

A 14-year-old female and two males, aged 14 and 15, were arrested and booked on suspicion of auto theft.

LLL finds most fire masks poor

LIVERMORE (AP) — Most of the breathing devices that are supposed to protect firefighters from smoke and fumes flunked laboratory tests of simulated fire conditions, University of California researchers say.

"The equipment wasn't designed for firefighting," Gail Gardenas, part of a research team at UC's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, said Monday. "Fire departments are being sold a package of goods in terms of what the equipment is supposed to do."

All the equipment tested has been approved by the federal government, she said.

"Firefighters have more job related injuries and deaths than any other profession in the country," said Bruce Held, an industrial hygienist who headed the research team. "Many of those injuries could be prevented if firemen were using dependable respirators."

The devices, similar to scuba diving gear, contain a bottle of pressurized air connected to a face mask. They are supposed to protect firefighters from smoke and from poisonous fumes of burning chemicals, plastics and synthetic compounds.

In tests of the most commonly used equipment, Ms. Gardenas said, some models did better than others, but none performed perfectly.

In heat tests, two of six devices of one type had their face mask lenses pop off at 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and two of four devices of a second type had their lenses dangerously loosened at 125 degrees, Held reported.

He said firefighters commonly work in temperatures of 200 to 500 degrees Fahrenheit.

Held said tests of heat reflected from surfaces showed that in every model, there was "a good probability" that harness straps that hold the breathing devices to the back would melt and break if a firefighter were trapped by a flareup of a fire.

If a harness breaks, Held said, "the weight of the air tank pulls the face mask off the firefighter, allowing the heated air of the fire to sear his lungs."

The equipment was also tested for resistance to cold because it is commonly stored outdoors on trucks, Held said.

Eight devices were kept at 25 below zero for 24 hours. Held said in one, the face mask shattered, the valves froze, and the air leaked out of the cylinder. In another, the tubes connecting the cylinder to the mask became stiff and brittle. In three others, the air bottle leaked, and the tubes became rigid and hard to use.

Captain Taylor radioed the position to the Air Force. The Air Force sent a C-130 plane with ELT monitoring capability plus the potential to handle high winds and turbulence.

Staedel was sorry they couldn't report signs of survivors.

"The only reason we got the faint ELT signal is because we were right over the deep gorge where the crash site was located."

A Navy helicopter went in and confirmed there were no survivors.

Staedel and his crew were notified by CAP officials they would be awarded the Search and Rescue Find Ribbon.

Riles' praise for Chinese

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State school Superintendent Wilson Riles said Monday American schools need to recapture the motivation and enthusiasm he saw on his recent visit to China.

"I noted a kind of dedication, commitment to learning, a gusto" in Chinese classrooms, Riles told reporters.

By contrast, he said, attitudes toward education in the United States, both inside and outside schools, are full of "confusion, complaints, lack of direction, lack of commitment, self-flagellation ... finger-pointing."

"It seems to me we've become very blase ...We seem to assume students understand what our constitution is about, and what the hopes and dreams and goals are for this nation," he said.

On another subject, Riles said recent statewide test scores show that "the 12th grade is the same disaster it's always been." But he predicted seniors' performance would start improving in a few years.

Riles was one of 14 American educators who spent 18 days in mainland China in October and November, talking to government and school officials, teachers and parents in six cities.

He said the strongest impression he got was a "sense of mission" in both teachers and students. Though he doesn't favor the Chinese political or educational system, Riles said, he wishes American schools could instill that feeling.

"I think for many people (the reason is) affluence," he said. "When people perceive there's nothing to struggle about, why do it?"

He said he had no way of telling whether Chinese students could read and write better than their American counterparts, but it was obvious they knew more about their system of government, since they start learning about it before they enter school.

Brown appoints trustees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Labor leader Michael Peevey and attorney Blanche Bersch were named by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. Monday to the California State University and Colleges Board of Trustees.

The appointments are Brown's fifth and sixth on the 22-member governing board for the 19-campus system.

Peevey, 49, of San Rafael, is executive director of the California Council for Environmental and Economic Balance, a labor-industry group. Before that he was the state AFL-CIO's research director.

He is the second labor leader named to an educational policy board by the Democratic governor, who has been trying to improve his relations with labor. Brown named state AFL-CIO leader John Henning to the University of California regents earlier this year.

Ms. Bersch, 43, a private attorney in Los Angeles, is a former deputy state attorney general. She also was on the policy council of the National Women's Political Caucus.

Both appointees are Democrats and succeed trustees whose terms had expired. Peevey, whose term ends March 1, 1985, replaces Winifred Lancaster of Santa Barbara, and Ms. Bersch, whose term expires a year earlier, succeeds Robert Beaver of Fullerton.

The jobs need Senate confirmation and have no salary except reimbursement for expenses.

County boards need help

OAKLAND — Alameda County Supervisor Valerie Raymond is looking for a couple of new county commission members.

Ronald Harris, appointed by Raymond's predecessor, John Murphy, will see his term expire at the December meeting of the parks advisory committee.

Bill Burgin of Fremont was appointed by Raymond to the committee on drug abuse, but has not turned up at any meetings and has been dropped from the membership.

Supervisor Charles Santana, who has no current vacancies on the drug abuse committee, has asked that Raymond appoint a Spanish- speaking person to the committee. She is agreeable and prefers someone from the Fremont portion of her district because the Valley already has a representative on the committee. However, that does not mean Valley residents should not apply for that seat, too, she said.

Resumes and letters of application may be sent to Raymond at her office on the fifth floor of the county administration building, 1221 Oak St., Oakland.

Space derby

Cub Scouts from Pack 942 in Livermore held a space derby at their regular November meeting. Each member built and entered a rocket of his own design in the derby and in keeping with the spirit of the event they sang the "Space Derby" song. Winners were (from left) Jack Bish, Tim MacLean and David Leach.

Yule cards finding the faith again

NEW YORK (AP) — Last year Santa was on the tennis court. Now he's driving a moped. These are among the changing scenes depicted on this year's Christmas cards. But the biggest change is a trend toward greeting cards with religious themes, reports the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers.

"There's a return to the traditional," said Harry J. Cooper, executive director of the 52-member association, who views Christmas greeting cards as reflecting patterns of modern living.

"The charismatic movement within the church may be a contributing factor to this change," he said.

"Perhaps it's the mode of piety as exemplified by the family of President Carter or the fact that many religious denominations are reporting increases in church attendance. These lifestyles are ultimately reflected by the artists and writers of greeting cards."

The dominant religious themes this year are the nativity, Madonna and Child and the tableau of the wise men at the manger, he said.

George Immisch, geography instructor at Chabot College in Hayward, has been selected as a State Merit Award Teacher for 1977.

The award is presented by the National Council for Geographic Education at the University of Houston. Initiated in 1971, it is designed to recognize outstanding teachers of geography or administrators and supervisors involved in geographic education.

Immisch taught four years at the University of Hawaii, where he was administrative assistant to the chairman of the geography department. He also worked for the City of Fremont planning department while teaching evening classes at Chabot College before being employed as a full-time faculty member teaching geography in the social science department.

Valley Campus tours musical

"Free to Be ... You and Me," a musical review for children and adults, will be presented by the Chabot College Valley Campus drama workshop at several Valley elementary schools beginning Wednesday.

The initial performance will be at Smith School in Livermore.

The play was created by the workshop, using songs and stories from the book and record "Free to Be ... You and Me" plus other original material.

Directed by drama instructor Ken Ross and featuring a cast of 14 students, the musical celebrates the uniqueness in every person through such musical numbers as the title song, "When We Grow Up" and "It's All Right to Cry," and through dramatized stories such as "Boy Meets Girl," "Delila Bush," "Southpaw," and "The Knee High Man."

Cast members from Livermore are Earl Boehm, Dennis Gleason, Sandie Lohsen, Tad Long, Mary Moffatt, Dave Ruzicka, Stephen Sanders, Jon Thomas, Jeri Waters, and Randey White; from Pleasanton, Nancy dePiero, Vonna Frohnen, and Sherry Kaufman; from Dublin, Paul Gordon.

Drama workshop is one of several drama courses offered at Valley Campus. In the spring quarter this production-oriented course will be offered again, with the focus of creating a play or musical to be presented in the campus' new multi-purpose activity center. Courses in beginning and advanced acting are also available.

Following the Smith School performance Wednesday, the production will be at Walnut Grove School in Pleasanton Thursday. Other performances are scheduled Dec. 5, Fallon School; Dec. 7, Cahbot College Valley Campus at 2 p.m.; Dec. 8, Rancho Las Positas, Livermore; Dec. 9, Rincon School, Livermore.

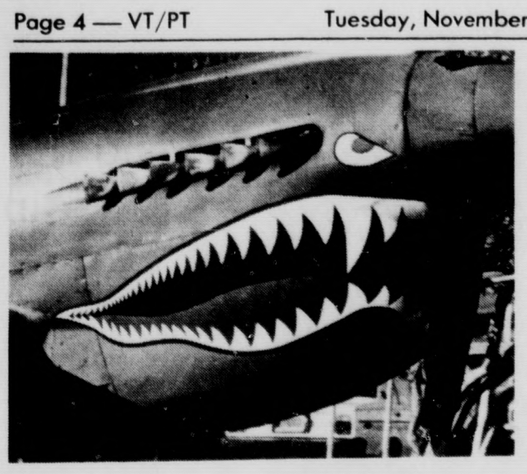
Warbirds invade the Livermore Airport with some fancy flying



O-47-A

The cockpit of this P-40, 'War hawk', gives some idea of a pilot's working conditions as he flew in search of the enemy. The engine (right) of the same plane was made from scratch by an airplane buff John Paul who put a lot of hours in collecting parts.

The roar of airplane engines heard flying over Livermore during the weekend was not the Air Force gearing up for World War III.

Instead, it was a casual gathering of professional air show pilots who flew their expensive, antique planes into the Valley for the fourth annual "unorganized fly in."

At least that's what pilot John Paul called it. He said the "non commercial" affair has become a custom for the air pros because they never get a chance to meet each other and discuss the fine art of flying when they are busy with air shows.

"It was a blast," Paul said. Some 300 spectators observed the historic planes flying in formation and individually buzzing along at 380 miles per hour just 10 feet off the ground. One plane, the French Navy Corsair (shown on page 1) actually saw action in the Suez Canal. It is owned by Gary Harris and home-based in Half Moon Bay. Another Corsair F-4-U, owned by "Planes of Fame" in Chino, (shown bottom left) was the actual plane used in the TV series "Ba Ba Blacksheep."

In all there were about 10 fighter craft, three AP-6 trainers, a B-26 bomber, and the world's one and only North American PT-26 owned by Fred Cook of Fremont. Tom Camp and John Paul of Livermore had their P-40's on hand and Clay Klaybo of Pleasanton was flying his warbird around also.

Chiropractic Health Hints

BY DR. RAYMOND SERAFIN, D.C.
A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE

IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH — CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST

Bad Posture Habits Cause Slippage of The Hip

Slippage of the hip is one of the most frequently encountered problems of the chiropractic profession. This, being so common, must therefore have a common cause and it does: faulty posture habits.

Before we discuss these, it must be said that there are other things that can cause slippage and they cannot be covered here. Such factors as structure deficiencies that will cause a constant slippage and falls will have the same end result, but by a large majority, posture habits are responsible for most hip displacements.

Most every cause of hip slippage will have history of crossing the legs while sitting. This habit will weaken the joint between the hip and the spinal column by persistent rotation backward of the hip on the side of the leg that is crossed over the other. This usually will result in a sciatic neuralgia or neuritis (is not corrected). Some other habits damaging to this particular joint are: while standing, supporting the bulk of the weight on one leg, and bending of the back in lifting. The aforementioned causes are but a few, but are the most common causes. The other causes are mostly variations of these same habits that subject this joint to strains.

Naturally the hip should be replaced and the habit problems dealt with to effect lasting relief.

A brief discussion of correct habits that would protect the sciatic joint from habit strains follows:

Sitting should begin with the feet flat on the floor, sitting well back in the chair, so that the buttocks and the upper back touch and rest against the back of the chair, the head erect. Standing should always be straight and with the weight equally distributed on both legs. In lifting, always face the object to be lifted and keep the back straight and bend the knees. All bending should be done by the knees and keep the back straight for supporting the weight to be lifted. When carrying something that is carried on one shoulder or in one hand, always change sides so that work is done equally by both sides. Postural imbalances cause many physical difficulties.

The changing holiday market/TV and space toys are the new stars under the tree

Toys.

The word is becoming synonymous with Christmas.

Each year there is a new trend in Christmas toys and this year, to no one's real surprise, space is the focal point.

Any Star Wars item "is real big," according to Mary Moore, the toy department manager at Dublin's Mervyns store.

"Space is a big deal," she said, adding that even Star Trek items that had been slow last Christmas, are big sellers this year.

Nancy Berkley concurred that anything that can be connected with Star Wars, is a popular toy. The shelves of her store, The Toy Box, in Pleasanton, hold a variety of space-related toys.

Micronauts are space dolls with inter-changeable pieces and sell for $2.25 to $25, said Berkley. She added that Japanese Shogun Warriors are being introduced this year by a number of manufacturers.

The fierce-looking warriors come in all sizes with names like Poseidon, Raider, Dragun and Mazina.

One of the makes Berkley carries has a real look of authenticity. The box is covered with Japanese symbols except for three English words — Made in Japan.

No problem, said Berkley, the kids know what everything is supposed to do and come in and educate her.

Keeping to a science fiction mode is a product called Slime. It is a green gel that slithers from its container and oozes onto the table. The stuff is advertised as "oozy, drippy, cold and clammy." Now there is truth in advertising. Slime "has really hit with a pistol," said Berkley. It sells for about $1.39.

On the other side of the coin, two new dolls have been introduced that are expected to do very well this Christmas.

Moore, at Mervyns, said Mattel's Baby Come Back is popular. "They told us it is supposed to be the number-one doll." The doll uses batteries to walk.

My Friend Mandy, a soft doll that comes in a pink dress and a straw hat is made by Fisher Price. "It should be the doll this year," predicted Berkley.

Farrah Fawcett-Majors' dolls have not done too well this season, said Berkley. She said it was like Cher last year, and added, "Nothing has hit like Barbie. I think she'll be with us forever."

Electronic games which are about half the price they retailed for last year, are selling well at Mervyns. A Telestar vidio video game with four different games sells for $25 at the Dublin department store.

Big Wheels by Marx "is still a big seller," said Moore. The $15 plastic low-riding tricycle has been a mover for years, she said.

For the younger set, Fisher Price toys, and Lego are always popular, said Berkley. She said Crayola, once known only for its wide assortment of crayons, has come up with a new line of plastic cups and plates that children can color to personalized their place setting.

Milking the Cow, a plastic cow filled with liquid that can be squeezed out, and the Whistling Mr. Machine are two new toys younger children are asking for, said Moore.

She added that whatever is advertised big on TV, is what "they come in to buy."

Some of the toys popular last year have not held up in popularity again this Christmas. Berkley said "everyone wanted Stretch Armstrong," a doll that can be stretched in any form and returns to normal, last year, but there isn't as much demand for it now.

One toy that did come back strong, she said, is Waterfalls, games like tick-tac-toe submerged in water. "Last year we couldn't keep enough on the shelf. They've been popular again this year."

The most popular games, according to Moore, have been Battling Spaceships, Breaking Point and Cat's Eye.

Prices normally increase about 10 percent each year, said Berkley. But, she added the increases are made at little at a time over the year, so there isn't one big increase right before Christmas.

By Arline Butterfield

My car sputters its last sputter along the dark, deserted, rainswept road. It is impossible to get it started, although I step out in a driving rain, get out my handy-dandy tool kit (which I always carry in case trouble occurs), raise the hood and tinker with the carburetor.

But nothing happens.

So, I put on the rain slicker and hat, along with all the jackets, sweaters, scarves and gloves I carry for just such emergencies, and get out of the car, and start slogging down the muddy road, the wind-whipped trees thrashing furiously on both sides.

With the help of the trusty flashlight I keep fastened to my belt for times like these, I am able to miss most of the large puddles.

Eventually, I see a light ahead, and there, lo and behold, is the answer to my prayers, in the middle of nowhere, a phone booth.

I struggle against the wind to reach the lighted cubicle, pry the glass-paneled door open, and throw myself inside the mahogany-panelled booth, trying not to drip rain-water on the sculptured red carpet.

"I'm in the mood for love," is playing on the loud speaker system in the corner. Warmth comes from the radiator. I select a dime from among the $300 worth I keep in my pocket for just such occasions, and put it into the slot. Immediately I hear the comforting hum of the dial tone.

To prepare for disaster, I have committed to my memory the phone number of the towing service. I dial it quickly and easily, while the wind buffets the outside of the phone booth, and squeals menacingly around the door.

I hear the number ringing at the other end of the line, and wait patiently for someone to answer. A voice comes on: "This is the operator. The number you have dialed requires a ten cent deposit. Please hang up the receiver, deposit ten cents, wait for the dial tone, and dial the number again..."

"But operator," I start to explain, "I already put in...Oh, all right." I decide to humor her. I'm feeling very peaceful, warm and secure.

I hang up the phone and the dime returns. Just to be on the safe side, I find a different dime among the many in my jacket pocket, and deftly and efficiently drop it in the coin slot with a hook shot from six inches away.

Again I carefully dial the number of the towing company. I casually whistle an obligato to the accompaniment of the phone ringing at the other end. But after a few rings the operator comes on again.

"The number you have dialed requires a ten cent deposit. Please hang up the receiver, deposit ten cents, wait for the dial tone, and dial the number again..."

"But, Operator, I put in ten cents already," I argue. I am starting to feel that I'm just not getting the point across to the operator. I notice the wind is hitting the phone booth in gusts and we are tilting sharply to the south, but the music plays softly and serenely, and the heater purrs and puts out its comforting rays. "You see, Operator," I begin.

"This is a recording," came the answer. "The number you have dialed requires a ten cent deposit. Please hang up the receiver, deposit ten ..." I hang up.

At this point I notice the loud speaker is playing "It's Been A Hard Day's Night." I reluctantly leave my safe and secure, though tilted haven. I step out into the storm, once more. I hike back toward the car, glad I had worn my hiking boots for the possibility of just such a problem as this. The river has risen during my absence, and water is running across the road and into the inky black, and the road is hard to find. But I take out my inflatable canoe, quickly inflate it and using a telescoped newspaper for an oar, row across to my car.

I make my way to the rear of the car and unhitch my faithful horse, Mishap, who had been tethered to the back bumper, in case something like this should happen. Mishap loves the rain, and is especially frisky. As we gallop home, I remember the Girl Scout motto: "Be Prepared."

Food for needy

Helping families to enjoy a happy Christmas is the goal of the Community Christmas Program sponsored by the Pleasanton Junior Women's Club and the Pleasanton Jaycee Wives.

Assistance in the form of food baskets, gifts, toys and special needs like clothing are distributed to community families for the holidays, according to the two clubs.

Canned food has been donated by school children and youth groups. Fresh foods, meats and gifts not provided by the food drive are purchased by monies donated by businesses, organizations and individulas in the Pleasanton area.

Last year 54 families with 94 adults and 139 children were aided by the Community Christmas Program.

Contributions to the fund, or questions about it can be directed to Marcelline Mahern, 3146 Berkshire Court, Pleasanton, or call 846-7164.

Zoo needs guides

If you like animals as much as you do people, the Oakland Zoo could use you to show one to the other — that's the animals to the people.

Zoo Guides are trained at the zoo. They learn about the animals and get to know what goes on behind the scenes. The Zoo Guides also learn techniques for working with groups and presenting information in an easy to understand way.

In addition to giving small group tours, Zoo Guides take periodic trips of their own to observe animals in other settings.

Trips to Audubon Canyon Ranch, the Seeing-Eye GuideSchool in San Rafael and the elephant seals at Ano Nuevo have enriched Oakland Zoo Guides' knowledge of the animal kingdom.

For information about becoming a Zoo Guide, call the Oakland Zoo Guide office at 562-2209. No prior knowledge of zoology is required.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: On my seventeenth birthday I was really excited because my dad told me I could take a girl to dinner and a movie later in the week and use the car. Two days later, when my dad was sober, he said he never said it. Well, I finally got the dinner and movie because of mom, but my dad seemed to have forgotten that he'd ever talked to me. His freaked-out behavior isn't unusual and it's driving me crazy. He says one thing and then the next day, he claims he never said it. It's like talking to the air. I don't believe he doesn't remember because he's successful in business and if he didn't remember things he would have been fired long ago. He drinks a lot, but so do all his friends and they're okay. — T.T. DEAR T.T.: Some people who drink heavily have what are called blackouts. They really don't remember and often whole evenings are wiped out. They may have conversations in which they appear to be perfectly sober and normal and yet the next day they can't remember anything of what they said. This is often an indication of alcoholism.

Your father may be an alcoholic and not be aware of this problem. Whether he is or not, I gather from your letter that he has a drinking problem. If your father is n alcoholic, he's suffering from an illness and needs help. It isn't hopeless, it can be treated but he must want to be helped, or at least recognize the fact that he has a problem. This is obviously a problem over which you have little control.

It is extremely difficult for youngsters to cope with this because the behavior of heavy drinkers is unpredictable and erratic, you will need help yourself.

There is an organization, Alateen, designed to help children of alocholics or problem drinkers understand the situations. Call your local chapter of Alocholics Anonymous to get information. They will kpep whatever you say confidential.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I have five brothers, a very strong father and some burly uncles who've been in and out of my life since I was a small child. Whenever I'm around them, I begin to feel like a represed homosexual. I don't mean that my feelings about my wife change (I'm happily married) or that I'm attracted to any of these men. God knows, I'm not! I do feel very feminine compared to them and they're all aware of this. They talk about me as if I were a delicate girl and make snide remarks about my relationship with my wife. This unnerves me. — J.P.

DEAR J.P.: Don't let it. Try to rise above it and realize that these taunts are coming from their own ignorance and insecurity. This is definitely their problem, not yours!

Everyone is composed of both male and female parts. We all have two sides. Some insecure men ruin their lives trying to deny or stamp out their feminine side. Instead of relaxing and realizing that this is a valuable part of their nature, they spend a great deal of time and energy trying to prove and reinforce what they feel is their masculine side. Such men are overly concerned with "toughing it out" and "hanging touch." This attitude is usually combined with a great deal of talk about women and relatively little action.

A study recently conducted by a Stanford University psychologist, Dr. Sandra Bem, concluded that these so-called supermasculine men and superfeminine women miss out on a great deal because they try to live out stereotyped roles. They seem unaware that it's possible to be tender as well as independent, assertive, yet yielding. By limiting their choices in life, they become frustreated and unfulfilled.

"LOOKS LIKE I'LL HAVE TO TAKE THE BICYCLE BUILT FOR TWO!"

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 45 year old woman, and have relatives who have had sugar diabetes. My mother died at 78 with diabetes. Is there anything I can do to prevent getting sugar diabetes? I am in good health, 5 feet 8, and weigh 150 pounds.

DEAR READER — The hereditary aspects of diabetes are sometimes hard to establish. Why? Because there is more than one cause for diabetes. It may be inherited or it may follow a disease of the pancreas or even mumps. It is probably several different diseases all with abnormally elevated blood glucose levels.

The other reason is that even inherited diabetes may manifest itself at different ages. If it tended to occur at age 75, but the person died from other causes at age 45, there would be no way of knowing that such an individual carried the genes to develop diabetes later in life.

It is a good idea to do what you can to prevent diabetes. Avoiding obesity is the most important measure. Avoid excess sweets and rely more on raw fruits and plain vegetables rather than sweets for the carbohydrates in your diet. Remain active. Physical activity helps keep the blood sugar low. These measures will help improve your health anyway, no matter what.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What can you tell me about lecithin? My mother has let a friend talk her into taking up to 20 a day. It does not say on the bottle anything about their strength or what is contained in them.

My husband is on a diet for high triglycerides, and she says these pills will help him. I am a very nervous person, and take tranquilizers, and she claims they will help my nerves. Is all this possible? How do you know what is too much when taking them?

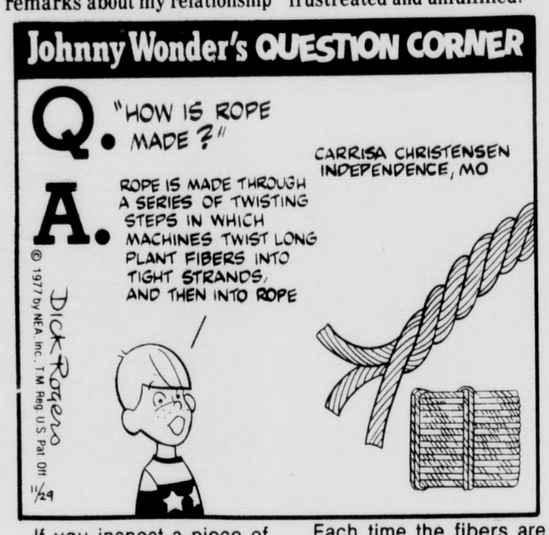
DEAR READER–Would you believe lecithin is a combination of triglycerides and choline. That is all it is.

Triglycerides means three fatty acids hooked to one molecule of glycerine. In the case of lecithin, one of the fatty acids contains phosphorous. The whole thing is then chemically combined with choline, another compound that is important in preventing fatty liver and has other functions in the body. Choline is abundant in lean meat and other foods.

And when you swallow lecithin, it must be digested. The triglyceride is broken free from the choline. The fatty acids are broken free from the glycerine and the component parts are then absorbed into the blood stream. It is no longer lecithin. You could get the fatty acids from many sources, and the choline from a good balanced diet.

No, I am afraid any good effects it has are from its placebo effects. That means it is related to the faith the person has in taking it. It will not help your husband, and it will not help you unless you have faith in it.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "HOW IS ROPE MADE?"
CARRISA CHRISTENSEN INDEPENDENCE, MO
A. ROPE IS MADE THROUGH A SERIES OF TWISTING STEPS IN WHICH MACHINES TWIST LONG PLANT FIBERS INTO TIGHT STRANDS, AND THEN INTO ROPE
© 1977 by NEA Inc. TM Reg U.S Pat Off
DICK ROGERS
11/29

If you inspect a piece of rope, you'll see it is made by many tough, threadlike fibers twisted together.

The best rope fibers come from the long leaf stems and stalks of a plant called the abaca plant, which grows in the Phillippines. This fiber is generally know as Manila hemp.

Almost all rope is made by machinery. In the rope-making plant, the long, tough plant fibers are separated and combed straight.

Then, through a series of twisting steps, the fibers are twisted end-to-end into tight strands, which are then twisted together to form the finished rope.

Each time the fibers are twisted the twist is made in the opposite direction to the twist before it. This makes the rope hard and strong and helps keep it from untwisting.

Today, ropes made of wire and such man-made fibers as nylon and glass have replaced plant fiber ropes for many uses.

South studied for a long while before playing to the first trick. How could he make his contract? At best it looked as if there were only 10 tricks to be gathered in.

Then he saw a way to collect 12. He started proceeding by winning the diamond in dummy. Then came a club to his ace, a spade to dummy's eight, a club ruff with the ace of trumps, a spade to dummy's jack, a second club ruff, a heart to dummy's king, a ruff of the last club, a heart to dummy's ace, the lead of dummy's last trump to get rid of trumps while chucking the losing diamond from his own hand and then the lead of the heart deuce.

East took his queen, but had to give South the last two tricks with the jack of hearts and ace of diamonds.

South had made six trump tricks instead of just five by what is known as a dummy reversal play. It is worthy of note that if South had been careless at trick one and won the diamond in his own hand he would have lost his contract.

Contra Costa must re-hire former deputy

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — A Superior Court judge has officially ordered Sheriff Harry Ramsay to re-hire a deputy who was fired in 1975 for possession of marijuana.

Judge Richard Arnason signed the order this week, granting James Brown his old job and partial back pay retroactive to Sept 1, 1975, the date he left the Sheriff's Department.

The order made official a memorandum of understanding Judge Arnason issued in the case last June.

That memo called Brown's dismissal from the force excessive, recommending instead an "adequate discipline" of six months suspension without pay and benefits.

Brown, a veteran of more than six years with the department, quit his job in September 1975 after being caught in possession of marijuana while riding in a car with his brother-in-law in Antioch. He was off duty at the time.

Called before Ramsay, Brown was given his choice to voluntarily resign or be fired, according to court records.

Brown resigned, but then appealed the decision, saying it was forced. The County Civil Service Commission agreed and said the resignation would be treated as a dismissal.

Ramsay consequently officially fired Brown in December and a long series of administrative appeals began, with Brown finally filing a lawsuit to regain his job.

Ramsay had contended that Brown's act was a felony at the time it was committed. Possession of small amounts of marijuana has since been classified as a misdemeanor.

They're certain of good faith

OAKLAND — Four of Alameda County's five supervisors were satisfied they enforced county policies on "good faith" efforts on affirmative action on a construction job last week.

The fifth, Supervisor Fred Cooper, voted against awarding a contract to Gallagher and Burke for a San Leandro road job because he felt the firm was allowed to come in late with its "good faith" affirmative action efforts.

However, county staff explained that Gallagher and Burke, which was the lowest bidder by $17,000, had use the county's old forms and that made a significant difference.

The old forms don't have any space for the contractor to list all of the details of subcontractor hiring, so Gallagher and Burke had nothing listed about making a "good faith" bid to get a minority subcontractor, in this case a minority trucking firm.

After the bids were opened, Gallagher and Burke notified the county of its "good faith" efforts. It met the county goal of 10 per cent of the total job value, which is around $100,000.

Cooper said that the contractor should have met the letter of the law. The staff replied that it may have been more a matter of communication because of the way the old forms are typed. New forms are more detailed and should clear that up.

The second lowest bidder, McGuire and Hester, spelled out its "good faith" efforts in time for the bid opening, but the bid was $17,000 higher than the one from Gallagher and Burke.

Plan to save YMCA building

PLEASANTON — A sewer connection may be the city's ace in the hole in its attempt to preserve the YMCA building on Rose Avenue, yet still sell and relocate it to make room for the extension of Peters Avenue near downtown.

Director of engineering Donald Sooby is suggesting to council members that the city promise any prospective buyer one sewer connection if that buyer promises to preserve the YMCA building and relocate it within the Sunol treatment plant area.

According to a staff report, Sooby has had several parties express interest in buying the building which must either be sold or torn down by the city by March 20. The YMCA and other occupants will vacate the premises early December. Several council members have previously stated they would like to somehow insure preservation of the old building and avoid tearing it down. Sooby's recommendation makes a sewer connection that glittering gold incentive which may be needed to fullfill the council's desire.

Only 140 new connections are sold each year in the Sunol treatment area. And scarce conditions will continue until Sunol pipes into the Valley Community Services District sewer plant which is planned to be expanded in the next few years.

Council members will review Sooby's suggestion Tuesday during the regular council meeting held at 30 West Angela.

New foster child ruling

BY BARBARA COHEN
Lesher News Bureau

CONCORD — Finding foster homes for Contra Costa teen-agers has never been an easy task and it may get even harder.

Because of new State Department of Health regulations, problem teen-agers under supervision of the county Probation Department cannot be placed in the same homes as neglected youngsters who are mainly in need of shelter.

Rose Manning, county Social Services Department, said the state feels the problem group, although these youngsters have not committed crimes, are considered a bad influence on the non-probation adolescents. Therefore, it concludes they should not live together, she said.

The probationary teen-agers are usually runaways or considered "out - of - control."

The Social Service Department doesn't agree with this conclusion, said Manning.

One Group doesn't appear to exert undue influence on the other, explained Manning, since both aren't far apart in their attitudes and often have the same problems.

In fact, "some of our best kids have come from mixed groups," she said.

Furthermore, she continued, becaused adolescence is a difficult stage anyway, many persons don't like to take in teen-age foster children, and finding homes for them has always been difficult.

The new situation only compounds the problem, she noted.

Manning sees the return to more institutionalized group care, which she is not happy about.

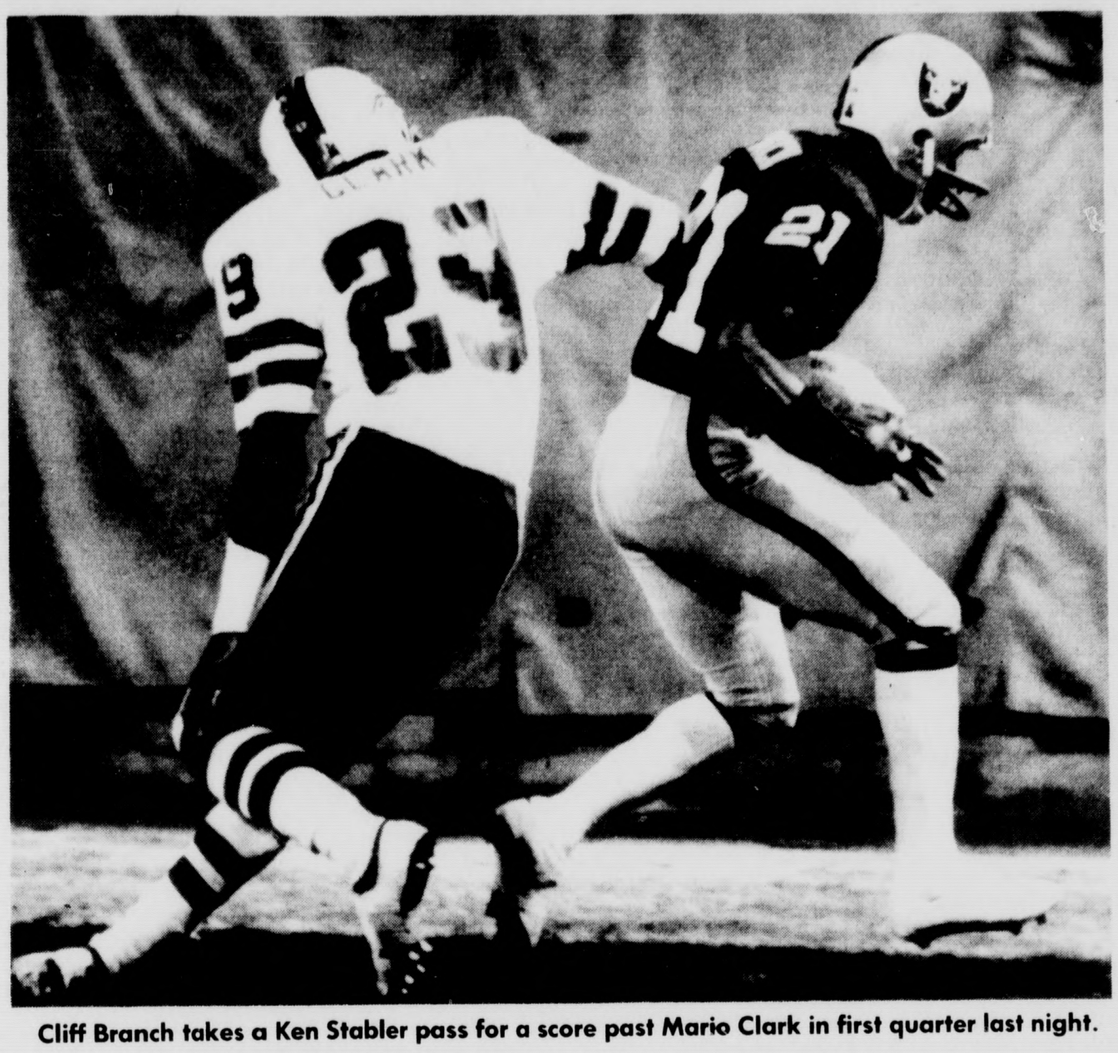
Raiders toy with Buffalo, 34-13



Cliff Branch takes a Ken Stabler pass for a score past Mario Clark in first quarter last night.

OAKLAND — Showing no effects of the strained knee that sidelined him last week in San Diego, quarterback Kenny Stabler completed seven of 12 ppsses for 166 yards and three touchdowns as he led the Oakland Raiders to a 34-13 victory over the Buffalo Bills in a nationally-televised NFL clash before 51,590 spectators Monday night.

The lop-sided win gave Oakland a 9-2 record in the AFC's West Divison race, one game behind the front-running Denver Broncos who are 10-1 with three games remaining on the regular league schedule.

Stabler, who played just over three quarters, hit wide receiver Cliff Branch with scoring passes covering 28 and 12 yards and fired a 44-yarder to veteran receiver Fred Biletnikoff.

Sharing the spotlight with Stabler was fullback Mark van Eeghen who gained 143 yards in 26 carries to become the first Raider in history to rush for mor than 1,000 yards in successive spasons. Van Eeghen upped his season total to 1,011 yards and his 143 yards matched his all-time best which he recorded against the New York Jets early this season.

Veteran fullback Pete Banaszak scored two touchdowns on one-yard smashes, his 50th and 51st TDs of a 12-year career, all with the Raiders.

The Bills mad things interesting for Oakland in the first half as quarterback Joe Ferguson came out firing, hitting his favorite wide receiver Bob Chandler frequently before the Raider defense tightened up and gave up only three points in the second half after chalking up a 20-10 intermission advantage.

Buffalo got its points on field goals of 33 and 40 yards by Carson Long and a 29-yard pass from Ferguson to wide receiver John Kimbrough in the first half.

Buffalo drew to within a touchdownhe Raiders shortly aftpr the second half kickoff when defensive end Ben Williams recorered a Stabler fumble on the Oakland 27-yard line. The Bills were stopped at that point, but Long came on to kick a 40-yard field goal to move the visitors up to 20-13.

The Raiders answred this one with another scoring march, covering 63 yards in six plays ps Stpb)er flippd a 12-yard toss to Branch in the end zone for the score. Mann convprted for a 27-13 Oakland spread.

Some unscheduled activity added even more excitement to the Monday Night Special when Biletnikof was tossed from the game for an altercation with referee Jim Poole fover an end zone call. Biletnikod became incensed when the official failed to call Mario Cark for interference on a pass paly. He then bumped into Poole and was ejected from the contest.

The Raiders overcame this to score again after Jack Tatum recovered a fumblp by Mikp Co)Lier thp npxt sprips and rpturnd to the Buffalo 20. Five plays later, and after van Eeghen went over thp 1,000-yard rushing mark, Banasak scored from the Buffalo one-yard line. Mann's conversion made it Oakland 34, Buffalo 13.

That locked it up for the Raiders and for Stabler who was replaced by Mik Rap with 13 minutes left in the game.

The Raiders will ow prepare for a road gam in Los Angeles Sunday.

The Raiders scored the first time they gained possession, marching 80 yards in 6 plays. The payoff was a 28-yard passfrom Kenny Stabler to Cliff Branch, who caught the pass in the left endzone over Mario Clark, a second-year pro from Oregon. Errol Mann's conversion was wide, leaving Oakland ahead, 6-0.

The big play in the drive was a 38-yard pass from Stabler to Clarence Davis.

The Bills used a pass interference call for long yardage and good field position that enabled Carson Long to kick a 33-yard field goal in the next series of downs to close the gap to 6-3.

Buffalo had the ball third and 18 when Joe Ferguson unloaded the long bomb to Bob Chandler that was batted down by Les Hayes. But Hayes was called for interference, giving the Bills the ball at the Oakland 40.

Ferguson passed 18 yards to Chandler and Roland Hooks picked up five more on a run before Long split the uprights from the Oakland 23 for the FG.

The Raiders came right back for their second TD, covering 72 yards in just three palys after newly-acquired Rick Jennings returned the kickoff to the Oakland 28.

Mark Van Eeghan hit the line for 12 yards and Davis gaind 16 more on a sweep around left end to the Buffalo 44. Then Stabler faded back, double-pumped and found Fred Biletnikoff wide open on the Bills 15 for an easy TD pass. Mann converted to make it 13-3 Oakland, with 5:01 remaining in the first quarter.

A poor Ray Guy punt, his only one of the first half, traveled only 32 yards and gave Buffalo the ball on the Raider 40 to set up the next touchdown. Six plays later, Ferguson passed John Kimbrough in the endzone for the TD. Kimbrough made the catch in-between defenders Jack Tatum and Willie Brown. Long converted, making it Oakland 13-10, with 12:11 left in the half.

The see-saw match continued in the next series of downs as the Raiders ate up 59 yards in 8 plays following the kickoff, Pete Banaszakgoing over from the 1 through right tackle. Mann's conversion booted the lead to 20-10, with 8:59 left.

Van Eeghan set up the score with a 26-yard burst off tackle to the Buffalo 4 and Banaszak took it over in two carries. It was Banaszak's 50th touchdown in 12 years of pro ball, 45 of them coming on rushing plays and 5 on passes.

The Raiders made one more series bid in the first half but Clark intercepted a Stabler pass intended for Biletnikoff in the endzone and ran it back to the Buffalo 44. The pass was delfected by Tony Green in Clark's waitng arms.

Jennings gets welcome

OAKLAND — Rick Jennings stood at the Oakland Raider goal line during the first quarter of last night's 34-13 win over Buffalo.

He looked downfield toward Bill kicker Carson Long, set to kick off. But his minddrifted from his work.

Jennings had to fight off an urge to turn around, grinning and waving to the 51,558 Coliseum fans welcoming him back to a team he's had a crush on for two years.

"I was getting ready to field the kick. and I couldn't concentrate. All I could hear was the fans yelling my name, asking me to give 'em a great run or something like I've done in the past," a joyful Jennings said afterward.

The past. For a second - year man, Jennings has quite a past.

Cut by the Raiders this pre - season, despite an outstanding year on special teams last season and a spectacular 69 - yard punt return for a touchdown against Houston in the first exhibition game of 1977, Jennings saw the world without joining the Navy.

A full 23 percent of the National Football League claimed Jennings as its own at one point or anther this year. The Raiders, then Green Bay, then New Orleans, then Tampa Bay, then San Francisco, and then — back to Oakland.

"It's the greatest Thanksgiving present I could ever get," said Jennings, signed Friday when the Raiders deactivated injured tight end Ted Kwalick.

Rick Jennings

Because Oakland treats personnel changes as only slightly less important than CIA secrets, no one knew Jennings was back until he appeared on the sidelines last night.

When he was cut by Oakland, Jennings called it "the biggest mistake the Raiders had ever made." Now, he says, they've come around to his way of thinking.

"There's no bitterness, I'm home again. When you love a team, you'll do anything for them," said Jennings. That includes reporting at a moment's notice when the phone rang in Rick's San Bruno apartment.

"I kept hoping something like this would occur — especially with the Raiders," said the effervescent wide receiver — kick - return specialist.

"I've always been confident in my ability as a football player, I got caught up in a numbers game at a time of the year when teams aren't exactly sure who they want to keep," said Jennings, who admits he can't understand what happened in San Francisco.

The 49ers cut receiver Steve Rivera, now with Chicago, to make room for Jennings, but never used him on offense and seldom used him as a returner, instead staying with the inconsistent Anthony Leonard.

"I can't fault them, though I didn't understand it," said the always positive Jennings. "I just didn't fit into their plans."

For now, he fits into Oakland's. "I got the right colored jersey now." he smiled. "Yes, I have. How can I lose with the fans I have here? I'm just glad y'all are glad I'm back."

CSH bombed by Bradley

PEORIA, Ill. — Roger Phegley scored 35 points Monday night as Bradley opened its college basketball season by breezing to a 107-72 victory over California State-Hayward.

The Braves charged into a 51- 29 halftime advantage and led by as many as 40 points, 92-52, midway through the second half.

California State was plagued by poor shooting, connecting on only 29 percent of their first half shots and 32 percent for the game. Bradley shot at a 69 percent clip.

Bobby Humbles added 18 points and Harold McMath had 11 points and 10 rebounds for the Braves, who posted their 16th consecutive opening game victory.

Dana Loville scored 20 points to lead the Pioneers, whose record dipped to 0-3.

EBAL soccer opens today

Another strong East Bay Athletic League soccer season begins today with all eight teams opening the slate with 3 p.m. contests.

Perenially one of the most respectedsoccer leauges in Northern California, this year's EBAL is sure to be exciting again.

Defending champion Granada, although hurt by graduation, still looked strong in pre - season and will open up against one of its toughest opponents, Amador Valley,at the Mat home field in Livermore.

Amador has lost a few key players to graduation, but still has retained a good portion of last year's near - championship squad.

Ironically, the two teams closed out the season last year in a title - deciding affair won by the Mats on the same field.

Up until that time, the race for the title was up for grabs between the Mats, Dons, Foothilland Livermore High. Amador came into that game with a first - place lead of one point.

California and Foothill will begin the year in Pleasanton on the Falcons' field, while Livermore travels to Danville to meetMonte Vista and Dublin hosts San Ramon.

Granada pinned by space problems

But that isn't the Matadors' biggest problem, according to Page.

"We can't practice at all in the main gym because the basketball teams are using it," the Granada mat coach moaned. "So we have to pack all our mats and go to Sonoma Elementary School two blocks away to practice.

Granada has five basketball teams that use the gym for practice. Combined with a large turnout ofwrestlers, it has created a space problem. Because of the difficult situation, the wrestlers were the first to go.

Page has a large turnout of 58 athletes out for the squad, one of his biggest turnouts ever, and that in itself has created a problem of sorts in getting space for the team to practice.

"We've given the wrestling team a room about 30 feet by 60 feet in size for them to practice," said Granada principal Jack Snodgrass. "However, they don't have room for the entire team to practice at the same time.

"Also, besides the five basketball teams we had the girls' two volleyball teams and the gymnastics team practicing there until recently," Snodgrass commented. "There has to be some concessions somewhere."

Page feels that now something can be done, though.

"The volleyball and gymnastics seasons are over," he said. "Besides, we've got 58 athletes to 20 for the basketball teams. They wanted us to cut the team down to 20 guys in order to practice. That's impossible. I need 13 players for the varsity and 13 for the junior varsity, at least.

"But the worst part is having to go to Sonoma to practice," he stated. "The Sonoma principal has been very cooparative in dealing with me but it's hard on the guys to go there every day. We have to run the two blocks and in wet, rainy weather like last week it can get really bad and the kids get tired."

Some of the wrestlers' parents have already taken some action. They went to see Snodgrass last week but didn't receive any response, according to a father of one of the wrestlers.

Head varsity basketball coach Pat Francisco had no comment on the situation.

Having a young team to start with in the first place is hard enough, according to Page, and the added pressure of not being able to practice at Granada doesn't help.

"It's already affected the team somewhat," he remarked. "And as far as I know we will continue to have to use the facilties at Sonoma."

Why not use the room at Granada and split the practice sessions?

'I almost quit over it'

"That's not a way to work with a team," Page replied. "I like to work with the whole team together at one time.

"They offered to let us practice in the main gym at 5:30 in the morning but you can't get anything done at that time. It's impossible.

"This whole situation has me disgusted," he went on. "I almost quit over it."

Despite the mat team's problems Page is still optimistic.

"We're holding the Granada Invitational Tournament this Saturday," he said. "And it WILL be in the main gym."

Rayford Roberson

Roberson making a mark

SAN JOSE — It's ironic that Rayford Roberson chose San Jose State University over other colleges because of its administration of justice department. The way he pounds quarterbacks, it's almost illegal.

Roberson, for any sports fan hiding in a bomb shelter the past few years, is the energetic force behind one of the top linebacking crews in the country.

This season alone, Roberson has sent four quarterbacks groggily to the sidelines pondering a career in an easier line of work — like shark taming.

Knocking down opponents is nothing new for the former Dublin High East Bay All-Leaguer.

While a freshman three years ago, he played in every game. Not only that, he stumped the experts by replacing All-PCAA performer Vance Topps at outside linebacker.

Roberson became an all-league player himself last year. The intercepting two passes for touchdowns and was credited with 183 tackles.

With only the televised encounter with San Diego State Dec. 3 remaining on the Spartans' schedule, Roberson is an odds-on favorite to repeat as an all-conference performer.

He's competing for All-Everything honors now, but not long ago Roberson was competing for the family foodstuffs.

With nine kids in the family from Wellington, Texas, steak wasn't exactly a daily supplement.

A recitation of the family members would make Guinness drool. No less than three sets of twin boys, two other boys and one daughter swarmed the Roberson household.

There's Ronnie, 27, Lester and Larry, 24, Rayford and twin-brother Troy 21, Keith and Kevin 13 and Tony, 11.

"Sure, we all used to fight," Roberson recalled. "Sometimes I miss that. I really love being in a big family.

But with each additional child came financial headaches for the Robersons.

"We couldn't afford a basket for basketball so we bent an old clothes hanger and used rolled up socks," he fondly remembered. "We played as if it was the real thing."

The family competitiveness extended to the playing field, where Lester and Larry were all-league in three sports at high school.

"I made up my mind that I would be a better athlete than both of them." Rayford said.

That's one goal out of the way, if you ask Spartan head coach Lynn Stiles.

"Rayford has become an excellent player," the second-year coach said. "He's a real catalyst on defense. He not only leads the team verbally but by example."

Because of his passion for knocking out quarterbacks, Roberson has earned the nickname "Sugar Ray," as in Sugar Ray Robinson, the former great boxer.

"I dream all week of knocking out the quarterback," Roberson said. "I've knocked them out against Long Beach. I've knocked them out against UOP, Fullerton and Hawaii.

"If I knock out one more quarterback, they're going to get me a boxing robe," Roberson said laughing.

Well, they say if it's so it ain't bragging.

Roberson even takes a fighter's outlook on approaching a game.

"Like a boxer only takes one punch at a time, I take one game at a time," said football's answer to Socrates.

Continuing his philosophy of football, Roberson said, "The game is all mental. It doesn't matter whether you are quick or strong. You have to have the right mental outlook.

"Your mind is the strongest thing God gave you," he added.

Not without a bit of humility, Roberson did acknowledge his pride in wearing a Spartan uniform.

"It's been a great opportunity for me to play as a linebacker at San Jose State," he said. "I'm following the greats like Dave Chaney, Carl Ekern and James Hawkins.

"And now," he added, "I'm playing alongside guys like Randy Gill and Frank Manumaleuna."

"The big difference between this year and last year is Rayford's more disciplined," Stiles said. "Last year we told him he had the ability to do great things. Only we said we'd like to know when he was going to do it.

"When Rayford says 'I'm going to knock your block off,' he goes out and does it," the former UCLA linebacking coach said.

One side of Roberson fans rarely see is his rapport with the fans, especially the younger ones who he affectionately greets after every game.

"Kids are important to me," Roberson said. "My minor at school is child psychology."

Roberson is a positive thinker in whatever endeavor he partakes and explained why.

"There are two sides to everything. The good and the bad. The positive and the negative. The up and the down"

Positive is something Roberson doesn't have to worry about.

"I'm No. 1 and I know it," he said. "I'll be the greatest linebacker in San Jose State history!"

As for a shot at professional football, Roberson declared, "Pros? I'm a No. 1 draft choice right now."

"He's all-conference without a doubt," Stiles said. "And next year I believe will be a premier season for Rayford Roberson."

Which means a very bad season for opposing quarterbacks.

190 yards for 49ers

Jackson's birthday is very happy

SAN FRANCISCO —San Francisco 49er fullback Wilbur Jackson celebrated his 26th birthday a week late with the greatest single-game performance of his four-year pro career Sunday.

The former Alabama star rushed for 190 yards in 16 carries and scored both of his team's TDs in a 20-17 win over New Orleans.

Only a tight hamstring muscle prevented him from breaking the 200-yard barrier.

Wilbur, whose best previous effort in the pros was a 156-yard game against Minnesota in November of 1976, found it hard to get to the shower as the scribes cornered him.

He told reporters, "I guess the reason I was getting the football was because the play up the middle was working. The only thing I didn't like about today was the hamstring bothering me."

Quarterback Jim Plunkett of San Francisco said of the Jackson yardage, "We kept giving Wilbur the ball because it was one of our most succesful calls. I called an audible and it really paid off with Wilbur getting loose for 80 yards on his second carry. We kept at it."

Coach Ken Meyer observed, "Jackson and Delvin Williams both rushed for more than 100 yards our first game against the Saints. So we thought we could run on them."

Then the 49er coach added, "I was concerned about this game. Because the Saints have a hell of a good offense." And probably because they had upset NFC West contender Atlanta, 21-20, last week.

Quizzed about the strategy at game's end when the 49ers allowed the clock to run down to five seconds before calling a time out, Meyer answered, "That's the way we planned it. If Jim (Plunkett) could have ran another play before the time out it would have been all right. But we wanted to get the ball at least to the 30-yard line so Ray Wersching would have a good chance at the field goal."

Wersching delivered with a game-winner of 42 yards, the second time he's beaten New Orleans in a fortnight.

One writer suggested, "I suppose New Orleans is going to buy up your contract." A hearty laugh was registered by mustachioed Raymond.

Archie Manning, the Saints' signal caller, noting he had passed only eight times during the November afternoon, explained, "We seemed to always be in a second and five situation. And that's a running down. If we had been less successful with the run we would have gone to the air more. I felt bad for the guys on our team. They played their hearts out.

"But we got hit with a couple of holding penalties and that took two touchdowns away from us. Still we had excellent opportunities to win it."

Chuck Muncie, the ex-California Golden Bear running back who now works for the Saints, was an amiable fellow as he visited with members of the Bay Area media.

Muncie said, "It really inspires me to see Walter Payton running for all that yardage. It gives me more incentive to do better."

Then he suggested, "I would love to get 2,000 yards some season. My time will come."

Chuck then smiled and said, "I'm going to get a grand this year."

Translated, 1,000 yards rushing.

After Sunday's game in which Muncie picked up 39 yards in 9 carries he now has 704 for the season.

New Orleans has three games remaining.

Tony Galbreath was the leading ground gainer for Hank Stram's Saints Sunday with 66 yards in 14 packs.

Bay Area five make the team

SAN FRANCISCO — Five players from nearby schools, including three from the University of California's 7-4 team, have been named to the West team for the annual Shrine East-West football game.

Placekicker Jim Breech, tight end George Freitas and receiver Jesse Thompson were the three Cal Bears selected Monday to play in the Dec. 31 game at Stanford Stadium. San Jose State defensive back Gerald Small and Pacific fullback Bruce Gibson also joined the West squad.

Breech made 50 field goals during his four-year varsity career and missed only four of his 34 attempts from 40 yards or closer. Freitas and Thompson combined for 101 pass receptions, while Gibson rushed for 1,199 yards for UOP. Small is considered one of college football's best pro prospects at his position.

Raider receiver tells it like it is

The deep baritone voice blares out the introduction. "KKIS with Mike Siani of the Oakland Raiders is brought to you by ..." the well seasoned announcer conveys in a deep, husky tone. " ... And now, here's Mike Siani," the high spirited voice concludes.

On cue, Siani's lips start to move. Simple as making one of his sure-handed catches, the Oakland Raider receiver begins to read from chopped up bits of copy. "For the third week in a row, both Bay Area NFL teams won again yesterday," he reads, leaning into the microphone. "The Raiders stomped on the Seattle Seahawks 44 - 7 and the 49ers beat the Falcons in Atlanta ..."

Some of his narration is handwritten, the other compiled from the station's newswire service, but Siani puts the loose ends together like Shakespeare's best work.

His enunciation is precise, voice deeper than normal and when the short spiel is over, Siani coolly leans back in his chair relieved that the effort took just one take.

Siani is a bonafide radio announcer and getting better by the week as he hosts his own sports show at the Walnut Creek station.

"It's fun," the Diablo resident stressed. "I think it's important that I get the experience and exposure here because I'd like to do this for a living someday.

Siani, whose 10-minute show can be heard just prior to the Monday night football also broadcast on KKIS, (99.9), teams with station program director Bruce Jensen of Danville.

The pair have an act well-worked out.

Jensen conducts the intro and Siani follows with a report on the San Francisco 49ers. The program director then counters with his Raider report, with locker room quotes dubbed in.

And finally, the dynamic duo finish off the show with candid ad-lib about the most recent Raider game.

The entire show is clocked to the second by Jensen, edited, re-run and hammered together with a pair of one minute commercials. The show is usually taped Monday mornings, providing Siani's limbs are all in working order after a bruising day on the gridiron the Sunday before.

"I'm kind of sore today," conceded Siani Monday, trying to shake the pain of a six-catch performance for 67 yards and one touchdown during Oakland's triumph over Seattle Sunday.

"But it feels good to drag yourself out of bed after a game like that and come down here. I was happy to get that much playing time."

After Siani makes his final professional catch, he'd like to turn his attention to a lengthy career in broadcasting, as a color commentator.

"I could never do what (Raider announcer) Bill King or (ABC's) Al Michaels are doing. Those guys own a gift of gab. But I think I could do the color. I've always liked to speak in front of people and formal groups and I figure it's helluva easy way to make a living. If you can get onto one of the major networks and do what comes natural, then that's all there is to it."

One of his favorites is John Brodie, the former 49er quarterback, making a new name for himself alongside Curt Gowdy on NBC.

"All you're doing is talking about something you know," he continued. "I know a lot about football and should be able to come across so that the average fan can understand it. Brodie explains things well, but there are some who don't and, of course, they're no longer on the air. "I figure if they can do it, why can't I?"

Before heading to the ball park Sunday, Siani had a chance to take in part of the 49er - Falcon's game from Atlanta. The game had him yawning, but the narration boggled his mind.

"On one play (CBS's and former Baltimore Colt) Tom Matte was screaming into the microphone," noted the receiver, bitterly dismayed. "You can't do that. There's a lot to be learned. You can't be saying things while the other guy is talking.

"I think it would be difficult the first couple of times, knowing that you are on TV before millions of people, but I'd get used to it.

The first time Siani sat behind a mike, he had no better luck than the Seattle team Sunday. The 10-minute taping lasted more than an hour and found him sputtering like the Seahawks' offense.

"My problem when I first started was that my voice was at a monotone," he explained. "There was no excitement and nothing generated into it. But I've progressed and have become more relaxed.

And dead set on a future ambition.

Mike Siani

Study birds

Do you know your valley birds? For those who don't but wish they did, Amador Adult Education in Pleasanton is offering a special course, starting Thursday, Jan. 5, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Natural history, behavior, nesting and habitat are all topics planned to be discussed in class and on several field trips. Instructor Patricial Jacobson has designed the course for birdwatchers, naturalists, teachers and other outdoor enthusiasts. It's called, appropriately, "Know Your Valley Birds."

And a new course is being added to the natural science series in adult education, "Know your Bay Area Tidepools." That class dealing with marine plants and animals will be held Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. beginning Jan. 3.

Class fees are $4 and registration begins Dec. 5 at the Adult Education office in the parking lot of Amador High School.

Shot clinic opens in San Ramon

SAN RAMON — An immunization clinic will be set up by the Contra Costa County Health Department at Family Medical Center, 9260 Alcosta Blvd., San Ramon on Dec. 1 from 3 to 6 p.m. for persons living in the San Ramon area.

Immunization against polio, diphtheria, pertussis, (whooping cough), tetanus (lockjaw), and measles will be offered.

Rubella (German measles) vaccine will also be available for ages one to 12.

Females over age 12 should consult their usual source of medical care for their personal need for Rubella vaccine.

Smallpox vaccination, though no longer routinely recommended, is available for those who need it for special circumstances.

Children 13 years old and under must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. An adult bringing a child other than his own must present a written consent signed by the child's parent or guardian.

Anyone 14 to 17 years old may either be accompanied by a parent or guardian or bring a written consent.

The Health Department contends immunizations are best secured from one's own physician who is familiar with the patient's health status and keeps permanent records of all services.

The Health Department does not keep records but advises individuals to do so.

For further information, call the Health Department in Concord at 671-4260.

The long and short of it

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it comes to the art of legislative give-and-take, Sen. Russell Long is envied by colleagues in Congress for his ability to end up taking a lot more than he gives.

One of those who admires the Louisiana Democrat's technique is Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., a member of the Senate-House conference committee working on the energy tax bill.

Long is chairman of the Senate conferees. Before it broke for a Thanksgiving week recess, the panel met six times, making little visible progress toward resolving the differences between the House and Senate tax bills.

While attending a Republican meeting in Orlando, Fla., Dole told reporters that he and other members of the committee couldn't predict what might emerge from the conference. All they could do, said the Kansas senator, was watch Long, wait for him to work out a back room compromise and then spring it on the other conferees.

"You're not saying you don't know what's going on in the conference committee?" asked one startled reporter.

Dole smiled, paused a moment, and then replied, "I think that's exactly what I was saying."

Once more, Alf?

Let's hear it for Alf Landon.

Dole was one of several presidential hopefuls at the Southern Republican Conference. Former Govs. Ronald Reagan of California and John B. Connally of Texas and Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee also were there.

Dole was asked about the growing list of Republicans showing an interest in challenging President Carter in 1980.

"Alf Landon is looking at it and there may be others," he said.

Landon, who recently turned 90, is the former Kansas governor who was the Republican candidate for president in 1936. He carried Maine and Vermont.

Shut your mouth

The Shah of Iran got some sage advice from the chairman of the House International Relations Committee when the two got together during the shah's recent visit to Washington.

The occasion was a tea party the committee threw for the shah at the Capitol. It was closed to the public, but photographers were allowed inside long enough to get some pictures.

At one point, Chairman Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., turned to the Iranian leader and warned:

"If you talk while they're taking your picture, they sometimes get you with your mouth open."

Crowded out

For weeks, the energy conferences have been the only show on Capitol Hill. While many lawmakers were pursuing congressional business in the far corners of the earth, the conferees sought vainly to resolve differences between House and Senate versions of energy legislation.

As if their task wasn't frustrating enough, Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., complained one day that he was unable to find a parking space in the vicinity of the Rayburn House Office Building.

"Those representing the administration had all their black limousines out there with chauffeurs," said Ford. "Those of us driving our own cars had no place to park."

Call to solve the nuclear waste riddle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for citizens groups asked the U.S. Supreme Court on Monday to make the government figure out what to do with nuclear wastes, and consider energy-saving alternatives, before it licenses any more nuclear powerplants.

The court was asked, specifically, to uphold appeals court rulings which sent back to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for review two cases involving the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant at Vernon, Vt., and the Midland plant in Midland County, Mich.

Lawyers for the Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. and for Consumers Power Co., which was building the Midland project, argued that the Commission's procedures were adequate and asked the Supreme Court to overturn the lower court decisions.

The eventual Supreme Court decision was not likely to have any serious effect on existing nuclear powerplants, but could force the NRC to step up its efforts to solve the problem of nuclear waste disposal and could make it consider whether energy conservation measures make proposed new nuclear plants unnecessary.

The issues were raised in two separate cases, which the Supreme Court decided to review together.

The NRC's predecessor, the Atomic Energy Commission, had licensed the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant in 1972, but the Natural Resources Defense Council and other citizen environment groups charged that it had not considered possible environmental impacts caused by nuclear waste disposal or spent-fuel reprocessing.

The U.S. Appeals Court here decided on July 21, 1976, that the NRC regulations were inadequate to explore fully the "nuclear fuel cycle" questions of reprocessing and waste disposal, and sent the Vermont Yankee case back to the commissioner to reconsider the powerplant's 40-year operating license.

The plant is now operating under an 18-month license issued under NRC "interim rules."

The environmentalists' lawyer, Richard E. Ayres, said they had "no quarrel" with the licensing of the Vermont Yankee plant but challenged the NRC's failure to deal with the nuclear waste problem, for which the agency, admittedly, has no permanent solution so far.

Ayres said that by upholding the appeals court in sending the case back to the NRC, the court would be requiring the commission to give the nuclear waste problem its attention before licensing more plants.

On behalf of Vermont Yankee, Thomas G. Dignan, Jr., argued that the NRC procedures were adequate and that the Appeals Court decision was contrary to congressional intentions in the Atomic Energy Act, which set the groundwork for licensing nuclear plants.

Justice Department lawyer Lawrence G. Wallace, representing the NRC, said that since Vermont Yankee was licensed, the NRC has made further studies which make the charge of inadequate review of nuclear fuel problems "largely academic now."

Cellist performs Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO — Mstislav Rostropovich, hailed as a "giant among musicians" and "the world's greatest living cellist," joins the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra for a special concert Sunday evening at the War Memorial Opera House.

Performance time is 7:30 p.m., one hour earlier than other symphony opera house programs.

The concert marks Rostropovich's eighth appearance with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and his first local collaboration with music director Edo de Waart. He will perform the Dvorak Cello Concerto in B-minor. Other works on the program include Rimsky-Korsakoff, Russian Easter Overture, and Tchaikovsky, Fantasy Overture, Romeo and Juliet.

Rostropovich, whose musical genius extends to conducting, composition and piano performance, has become a legend in his own time.

In 1947 he played a concert outside the Soviet Union for the first time and since then has appeared in recital, as cello soloist, as pianist in recital with his wife, soprano Galina Vishnevskaya, and most recently in the role of conductor.

This season, he assumed the post of music director and conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington D.C., the orchestra with which he made his U.S. conducting debut in 1975. That same year he conducted the San Francisco opera production of "Pique Dame," starring Vishnevskaya.

The celebrated Russian was born into a musical family in 1927.

His mother was a pianist and his father a cellist. Following his initial studies with them he entered the Children's Music School in Moscow and continued on to the Moscow Conservatory.

High Tar No Longer Essential To Taste.

Tests prove low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

For years, it seemed the only way to get real taste from a cigarette was to smoke a high tar brand.

High tar cigarettes had an "exclusive" on taste.

Today, all the standards are changing because of a new taste breakthrough called 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver flavor way out of proportion to tar.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1977

Kings: 8 mg. "tar," 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec.'76
100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

REGULAR and MENTHOL

Test Data Conclusive

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. Thousands of smokers were involved.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.
